PREFACE.

CLASSMATES :

I have found that the duties of Secretary, for the time I have endeavored to perform them, are mildly laborious and full of compensation. I can say that it has been a very great pleasure to me to be brought into closer contact with all of you, and to follow your successes more closely than I was able to before.

I have a theory that every organization exists for some specific purpose, and that it flourishes so long as it fulfils that purpose, and only so long. The purpose of a class organization is to furnish opportunities for men who spent four memorable years together, to renew friendships formed during that time, and to discover the fulfilment in each other of the promise of those years. I believe that this can best be done by affording opportunities of meeting under circumstances where formality can be laid aside and the care and responsibilities of later life forgotten so that we can imagine ourselves, for the time being, as we were twenty years ago.

Thanks to the assistance of a local committee consisting of Bailey, Churchill, and Clarke there have been two Field Days at the Hoosic-Whisick Club, which certainly served the purpose above indicated. Thanks also to the efforts of the same committee, the meetings at the time of the twentieth celebration proved exceedingly amusing and pleasant.

The thanks of the class are also due W. S. Spaulding for inviting the men for a sail upon his boat, which proved one of the pleasantest features of all.

I have been able, through the assistance of the other members, particularly of Wardner, to discover and obtain information from several men who previously were lost. I regret that I am unable to report on and supply information concerning some of the members, either from losing track of them altogether, or from their failure to answer. I shall appreciate any information concerning these men which any classmate can furnish.

I should be remiss in my duties if I failed to mention the generous hospitality of the New York members of the class, shown by the dinner given by them in February, 1908, at the Harvard Club in New York. This most effectually served to arouse enthusiasm and prepare the way for the more extended June celebration.

In conclusion I only have to thank all of you for your consideration and kindness, and to hope that I may be able to assist in keeping the class together for many other reunions hereafter.

GEO. ROYAL PULSIFER,

Class Secretary.

William Beals, Jr. "William Beals, Jr., whose sudden and untimely death in San Francisco on the 9th January, 1907, will cause widespread sorrow among his classmates and friends, was the older son of William and the late Sophia Mauran Beals of Boston. Beals was born in Boston in 1865, and after attending the Dwight Grammar School, entered the Boston Latin School to prepare for college. After some years' attendance there, he completed his preparation under Mr. C. W. Stone, who at that time conducted a private school in Chestnut street, Boston, and entered college with honor in September, 1884. In college Beals was a general favorite with all who knew him; he played upon his freshman baseball team, was active in his support of all college sports, and became one of the best-known members of the class. On graduation, in 1888, he received magna cum laude in natural history, having specialized in geology, and to the study of that subject in its economic aspects he devoted most of his after life. With Mr. C. L. Whittle of '87 he formed the firm of Beals & Whittle, consulting engineers in mining and mining geology, with offices in Boston. With all his customary energy, Beals plunged eagerly into the practice of his profession, and at the time of his death had attained a position of authority and distinction among the mining engineers of the East. He had traveled extensively, in the practice of his profession, both in Europe and America, was at one time connected with the United States Geological Survey, and at the time of his death was interested in gold mining in Costa Rica. About eight years ago, he was married to Edith March Melcher, of Portsmouth, N.H., who, with his father and his brother, survives him. Late in the autumn an important business engagement called him to Tonopah, Nev., and he had gone thence to San Francisco for a few days at Christmas, where he was seized with an attack of pneumonia. He had sustained three separate invasions of the same disease in earlier years, and from the outset his condition was very grave. His wife was summoned from Boston, and she arrived at his bedside to find him bright and cheerful, as always, but three days later a weakness of the heart supervened, and he died in the early morning of Wednesday, January 9. This is the bare recital of the facts of Beals' life, but it gives no notion of the man himself as his friends and comrades knew him. No man ever had a more loyal friend than he was. A high and manly honor was instinct with him. Courage and quiet bravery were his and many a time in his active life he showed them to the full. He knew no dishonest thought — he had none of the world's finesse — his character was simplicity and purity itself with a gentleness and refinement of feeling as delicate as a woman's. Once he entered upon a task, he thought of himself last — but gave his uttermost to the end in view, and in the face of death itself his courage was unshaken. We who knew his worth will long remember him; and may the example he has left us be more lasting than the period we were permitted to enjoy his acquaintance." — H. P.

At a meeting of the class, held on Commencement Day, 1908, the following resolutions were adopted :

Whereas, William Beals, Jr., a member of the class of '88, came to his death in San Francisco on the 9th January, 1907.

Resolved, That the class of '88, proud of its comrade in life, deeply mourns his untimely death. By his decease the class has lost one of the best-known among its members, whose life was a high example of loyalty, integrity, and honor.

Resolved, That the class extends its sympathy to the widow and the family of the deceased in the very great loss they have sustained.

Resolved, That the secretary be directed to make record of these resolutions and to despatch a copy of the same to the family of our classmate.

JOSEPH I. BENNETT. Is a lawyer at 47 Court street. He is married and lives in Brookline. The secretary regrets that he has been unable to get any definite report.

WILLIAM BAYARD DE BILLIER. Stockbroker. Married, Oct. 17, 1905, Mrs. Martha Allen Jeffrey. Address, 34 East 32d street, New York City.

WILLIAM JULIAN ALBERT BLISS. Collegiate professor of physics Johns Hopkins University. Lives at 1017 St. Paul street, Baltimore. Married Edith Grantham West, Philadelphia, Nov. 19, 1896. Has two children: Eleanor, Aug. 16, 1899; Frances McDowell, Nov. 6, 1900. Member University Club of Baltimore, Baltimore Club, Baltimore Country Club, Harvard Club of Maryland, Loyal Legion, American Physical Society. Published, Ames & Bliss, "Manual of Experiments in Physics" and scientific articles. Actively interested for many years in Baltimore Reform League, but declined nomination to the City Council. Address, Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Md.

EDWARD LUDLAM BLOSSOM. "Metallurgical and mining engineer. Permanent address, Butte, Mont. I have traveled much in the Western States since last report. Took a small part in the Montana Copper War and the mining boom of southern Nevada. The San Francisco earthquake found me in the Palace Hotel where I lost my baggage. Was four days in the burning city. Through all this time have met but few '88 men. Recently I did meet Causten Browne in Salt Lake City and enjoyed his hospitality. The same good fellow as ever! We two represented the class at a banquet given in January by the Harvard men of Utah to Dean Briggs. My best wishes to every '88 man! We can't help growing older, but the dear old college has helped us to do it gracefully."

MELVIN EDWARD BOAS. Has not reported.

MAXIME BÔCHER. Is professor of mathematics at Harvard. Residence, 48 Buckingham street, Cambridge. Married Marie Niemann, of Göttingen, Germany, July 21, 1891. Three children: Helen, Esther, and Frederick. Has written mathematical treatises and text books, and in 1904 delivered an address on the Fundamental Conceptions and Methods of Mathematics at the St. Louis Congress of Arts and Sciences. Was editor of the Annals of Mathematics, 1896-1900 and 1901-1907, and since 1907 has been editor-in-chief Transactions American Mathematical Society. Is also a Fellow of the American Academy.

CAUSTEN BROWNE, JR. Residence, 769 First avenue, Salt Lake City, Utah. Married Caroline Wilhelmina Zeigler, of Salt Lake City, Oct. 18, 1899. One daughter, Katharine Maynadier, July 1, 1903. Member University Club of Salt Lake City. "Am still with Walker Brothers, Bankers, where I have been employed over seven years. . . . Although a resident of Utah I have not joined the dominant church, and am doing my best to maintain one wife and a daughter, at the present writing nearly five years old. I am afraid I have neither achieved any great honors nor have I had any of the said great honors 'thrust upon me,' but I have my lightning rod up and hope it will bear fruit in the near future."

THOMAS QUINCY BROWNE, JR. Is an associate principal of the Morristown School, Morristown, N.J., where he lives. He is a member of the University Club, New York, Faculty Club, Columbia University, Harvard Club, New York, Harvard Club, New Jersey. He is the honorary local secretary of the Egypt Exploration Fund. He has the degree of A.M. from Columbia University, also Master of Education from the Teachers' College, a department of Columbia. He has published "Pardon," a short story translated from the Spanish of Emilia Pardo Bazan, and "Physics in the Secondary School" in School Science and Mathematics, and "Laboratory Equipment of Secondary Schools," also an article in the Illustrated Outdoor News, in a series of articles to which numerous college presidents and head masters of schools contributed. In 1908 he published a translation of the "Life of President Diaz of Mexico," by Raphael de Zayas Enriquez, the poet laureate of Mexico. Senor de Zayas is at present a Mexican Congressman and has been a life-long friend of Diaz. Browne reports that the book is exceedingly outspoken and frank, and discusses at length the principle of democratic government, which the author considers of equal value to citizens of the United States and of Mexico. It is published by D. Appleton & Co.

HENRY G. BRUCE. Not connected with the class socially.

WALTER FRANKLIN BRUSH. Is now an instructor of history at Hackley School, at Tarrytown, N.Y. For a year he was an instructor at the Morristown School with his classmates, Butler, Brown, and Woodman. Brush was admitted to the bar and practised for a few years, then studied theology, but was never ordained, and is now teaching. He writes: "A great English jurist, Sir Edward Bowen, once remarked that a man must be a fool to change his profession after thirty, and there is much to be said for his point of view. I ought to know because I have been at law, theology, and pedagogy since that time of life. There are, however, compensations in everything, and there are advantages even in changing your profession. One of these is that you meet a great variety of people, and many different types of men; and it is a great pleasure to me to have found in my different walks of life so many excellent Harvard men who were proving themselves valuable in their professions and were reflecting credit on their alma mater." Brush is interested in some sociological problems, particularly that of Italian immigration, and has worked with the New York Society which endeavors to protect these people. He is a member of the Harvard, University, Century, City, and Riding Clubs of New York, and resides at 16 East 37th street, New York.

MYRON LUTHER BRUWER. Is a farmer at Wilbraham, Mass.

CYRIL HERBERT BURDETT. He is also president of the Unitarian Club of New York and a member of the Hamilton Club of Brooklyn, N.Y. He writes: "As a diversion from business cares and responsibilities I have answered the call, 'Back to the Soil,' and purchased an old farm at Ridgefield, in the foothills of Connecticut. My 'estate,' which is charmingly situated with commanding views over the surrounding country, consists of pasture, field, and woodland, the soil, however, being hardly fertile enough for profitable cultivation. I have remodeled the house, added new outbuildings, stocked the place with cattle, horses, and chickens, and have entered upon the life of an amateur farmer. Here, at the close of the long summer days, I can rest through change of thought and scene and enjoy the relaxation of outdoor life, while in haying time I can be found in the fields, trimming the load, and in the barn storing away with unwonted exertion, to the great delight of my farmer and sometimes to the amusement of my guests who join in the labor. I find these experiences conducive to a healthy enjoyment of life by supplying an interest outside of the daily routine of business." In the summer of 1907 he took a trip through the Great Lakes upon a large freighter. He was the only passenger on board, which was a distinctly novel experience.

ARTHUR PIERCE BUTLER. Is associate principal of the Morristown School, Morristown, N.J., teaching history and manual training. BENJAMIN FRANKLIN CURTIS. Art publisher, firm of Curtis & Cameron, Pierce building, Copley square, Boston, Mass. Member of the St. Botolph and Boston Athletic Clubs, Players' Club of New York, Cosmos Club, Washington. Married Mary B. Mudge, of Lynn, June 26, 1891. Children: Gordon, Dec. 19, 1892; Robert M., Sept. 10, 1894; Mary Carroll, named after Carroll Edson, Dec. 17, 1896; Helen Child, March 5, 1900; Jane Elizabeth, July 12, 1907. Residence, Wellesley Hills, Mass., in winter, and Blue Hill, Maine, in summer. Curtis writes: "The 'Cameron' of the firm name of Curtis & Cameron is more or less a myth, although Cameron '87 is responsible. I started the business alone in '95 with no partner, either active or silent. I went under the firm name of Curtis and Company, as being sufficiently impersonal. But I found there were six other firms of that name, their products being variously apples, collars and cuffs, pants, Ladies' Home Journal, etc. So I picked up an art catalogue and running my eye down the A's and B's until I hit on Cameron, whose name seemed to go well enough with mine for a firm designation. In '97 J. B. Noyes '91 became my partner, and has been with me ever since, although the firm name has remained the same. As a firm we have published handbooks of the Boston Public Library and the Library of Congress, two books on Abbey's 'Quest of the Holy Grail,' Mural Painting of America, and several editions of our constantly increasing catalogue, which is, in a small way, practically a handbook of American art. In our Copley print reproductions we have published several things of art interest, among them the Mural Paintings by Edward Simmons and Saint-Gaudens' 'Shaw Memorial' and 'Sherman Statue,' Sargent's Portraits of Higginson and Eliot, and several of Howard G. Cushing's paintings."

FRANCIS BRYDEN DANA. Married Florence Knight at Boston, Mass., June 1, 1892. Children: Ralph Francis, Nov. 18, 1893; Marion, Aug. 23, 1895; John, Feb. 18, 1898. Residence, Brookline, Mass. Dana has nothing new to report since the last report.

JOHN DANE. Orthopedic surgeon in Boston at 29 Marlborough street. Member University Club, Massachusetts Medical Society, American Orthopedic Association, Boston Society of Natural History. Has contributed professional articles in medical journals. Dane has been greatly confined lately because of his necessary attendance upon his father, who has been seriously ill. Residence, 451 Marlborough street, Boston.

WILLIAM PECK DANIELS. Is associate secretary of the Manhattan Trust Company, 30 Wall street, New York. Residence, 24 West 45th street, New York. He is unmarried. He writes: "Our last class report, issued in 1903, recorded me on the invalid list. A severe case of typhoid fever, contracted in 1901, was succeeded by complications which seemed to baffle the medical fraternity for more than a year, and were only finally overcome by the virtues of the climate of Nova Scotia, where I passed the summer of 1903, on a visit to our classmate, Keasbey, at his house in Chester. Early in 1904 I resumed my position as manager of the New York house of Mason & Hamlin Company, where I remained until July, 1905, when I was appointed general manager of the company with my office at their headquarters in Boston. I lived in Boston for two years, until the spring of 1907, when I resigned my position with Mason & Hamlin to accept the appointment of assistant secretary of the Manhattan Trust Company of New York, where I am now engaged. As it may occur to any interested reader that my training in a manufacturing business does not obviously qualify me to fill the position of a bank officer, I will say that my duties are more concerned with the solicitation and development of new business than with the technical routine of the business of the company. We have several Harvard men in the Manhattan Trust Company, and many Harvard affiliations, both business and social."

WALTER DORSEY DAVIDGE. Is a lawyer, office in the Bond building, Washington, D.C. He is not married. He is a member of the Metropolitan Club, Washington, and University Club, New York, and Columbian Historical Society at Washington. He has been interested in military matters and has been an officer of the District of Columbia Militia, his last office being judge advocate general with the rank of major, which office he resigned on July 18, 1905. In 1891 he was appointed by the King of Spain legal adviser to the Royal Spanish Legation at Washington, which position he still holds. In 1907 he received from the King of Spain the decoration of the order of Isabel La Catolica. He lives at 2115 O street, Washington.

PHILIP DEXTER. Lawyer in Boston with office at 40 State street. Director in many corporations and trustee. Married Edith Wood, of Boston, April 16, 1895. One child: William, July 15, 1897. Member of Somerset, Puritan, Tennis and Racquet, Country, New Riding Club of Boston, Essex County Club, Harvard Club of New York. Reports as to his part in politics: "None that's fit to print." Residence, 29 Massachusetts avenue, Boston. He writes:

"I'd like to write you a giddy romance, as long as you're shy about doing it, but I've no capacity that way, and the facts are contemptibly uninteresting, with one exception, which I find extremely interesting — I can't eat or drink as much as I could. Can you?"

DAVID TAGGART DICKINSON. Lawyer in same offices as Bailey and Pulsifer, 412 Barristers Hall, Pemberton square, Boston. Member Boston City Club. Representative in Massachusetts' Legislature for three years, 1895-1897, and Mayor of Cambridge, 1901. Spent one year in practice at Manchester, N.H., but returned to Boston in fall of 1907. Married Carrie M. Story, of Manchester, N.H., Dec. 8, 1892. Four children: David Taggart, Jr., Aug. 30, 1894; Melvin Story, Nov. 11, 1895; Elbra Story, June 8, 1897; and Elizabeth, Nov. 11, 1901. Residence, 30 Agassiz street, Cambridge.

William Franklin Draper, Jr. Died at Paris on March 18, 1909. Draper was born in Hopedale, Mass., Dec. 17, 1865. He attended the Hopedale public schools and West Newton English and Classical School (Allen School), Exeter Academy, and during freshman year was a member of the class of 1888. Preferring a business career he left college and entered the business conducted by his father and uncle, the firm of George Draper & Sons, to which he was admitted as a member on Jan. 1, 1887. He was a director of various Hopedale corporations. After about ten years of business he was able to retire and passed the remainder of his life partly in New York City and partly in traveling, living for many months in Japan. He finally took up his residence in Paris, where he died. He married Miss Flora Welch of Hopedale, who survives him. Because of his short connection with the class he was not well known to the members. His friends, however, appreciated his manly character, his fearless convictions, and strong will.

RUSSEL DUANE. Lawyer. Member of firm of Duane, Morris, Hecksher & Roberts, 1617 Land Title building, Philadelphia. Member Philadelphia Club, University Club of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania Club, Contemporary Club, Lawyers' Club of Philadelphia, American Philosophical Society, Sons of Revolution, Society of War of 1812, director of Philadelphia Life Insurance Company. Has taken a prominent part in the independent movement in Philadelphia and Pennsylvania, being city chairman of Lincoln Republican Party, and ward chairman of the City Party for the seventh ward of Philadelphia, and having delivered several political speeches in the campaigns of 1905-1907. Married Mary B. Morris, of Philadelphia, June 14, 1899. Children: Morris, March 20, 1901; Sarah Franklin, July 4, 1904; and Franklin, Oct. 24, 1905. Residence, 2028 De Lancey Place, Philadelphia.

He married Ruth Dexter Conro at Marion, Mass., June 6, 1899. Children: Enoch, Oct. 31, 1901, since died; Kimball Conro, Jan. 24, 1903; Hervey Bertrand, Aug. 13, 1905.

CARL ADOLF EWALD. Has been engaged in the shingle and lumber business on Puget Sound with his brothers for the last seven years operating three mills. In the early part of 1908 he sold a large mill in Seattle and retired temporarily from business. He went to Nome in the gold rush in 1900 as a cabin passenger and returned in the fall to Seattle, as he expresses it, in the steerage with eight hundred other sore argonauts. He is a member of the Seattle Harvard Club, and lives in Seattle, Wash. Address, Box 363, Seattle, Wash.

Frank Lewis Fales. Fales died in Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 5, 1905. He was a member of the class of 1888 only during the last part of his course in college. He received the degree of A.B. in 1888, and the degree of S.B. from the Lawrence Scientific School in 1889. He was connected with the Metropolitan Water Works of Massachusetts until April, 1899. He then went to Cincinnati and was in the engineers' department of the Water Works Commission of that city. He was a member of the Boston Society of Civil Engineers. He was unmarried.

At a meeting of the class held on Commencement Day, June 27, 1906, a committee, consisting of Bailey, H. M. Clarke, and Churchill reported the following resolutions which were unanimously adopted:

“ The class of 1888 desires to record its appreciation of its late fellow member, Frank Lewis Fales, and its sorrow at his early death. In college and in the broader field of life he was studious, earnest and thorough in all his work. Well fitted by nature and training for his chosen profession of engineering, he gave promise of a career of much usefulness to his fellow men. His manly character and devotion to his life work will ever be a pleasant memory to his classmates.”

HERBERT HAVILAND FIELD. Is director of the Concilium Bibliographicum with an office at Hofstr., 49,

Zurich, Switzerland, and house K  llikerstr., 9. Married Nina Eschwege, of London, April 25, 1902. Two children: Noel Haviland, Jan. 23, 1903, and Elsie Haviland, July 11, 1905. Is a member of numerous foreign scientific societies. Honorary member Leipzig Naturforschende Gesellschaft and member American Association for the Advancement of Science. Has visited frequently most European countries and spent the summer of 1907 in America, coming as Swiss government delegate to the International Zo  logical Congress in Boston, held that year. Holds degrees of A.M. and Ph.D. from Harvard. Is author of numerous pamphlets, articles, and reviews and is editor of the Bibliographia Zo  logica. "Of events of interest I need only record the continued progress of the Concilium Bibliographicum, which I have made my life work. I have become a landowner in Zurich, having built a dwelling for myself on the hill back of the town and a building for the Concilium in the town itself. European builders run beyond the estimates, it would seem, as much as do those in America, and the building regulations are most vexatious. The institute is visited annually by a number of scientists and bibliographers from America; but I do not think a classmate has recently looked in. They would be welcome." From one of the publications of the Concilium the class secretary quotes: "The Concilium Bibliographicum is a central agency founded by the International Congress of Zo  logy, with the financial support of the Swiss Confederation, The Canton and City of Zurich, the Zurich Medical Station of Naples, the Elizabeth Thompson fund, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the Zo  logical Society of France, the American Microscopic Society, and of numerous private donors." "The work of the Concilium consists in collecting the bibliographic notices from all current publications in zo  logy, paleontology, microscopy, anatomy and physiology, and of printing and distributing them in card form."

Member of the Harvard Club, University Club, American Institute of Architects, the Architectural League of New York, Harvard Engineering Society of New York, and Society of Columbia University Architects. Residence, 55 West 33d street, New York.

HERBERT KEIGHTLEY JOB. Writes: "I am working along the same lines and at the same place as in the last class report, being still pastor of the Congregational Church at Kent, Conn., and pursuing the avocation of field work in ornithology, and the popularizing of bird study through photography, authorship, and lecturing. In the last few years I have contributed a large number of illustrated articles on birds to the leading magazines, and since the last report have published two more books, making three thus far. The second was 'Wild Wings,' published in 1905 by Houghton, Mifflin & Co. The last, being published this spring, 1908, by The Outing Publishing Company, is 'The Sport of Bird Study.' I have lectured a good deal throughout New England and the Middle States, and have been received at the White House by President Roosevelt to exhibit my photographs of wild birds from life to him and his family. Each spring of late years I have made an exploring expedition to some wild and interesting region, such as the swamps of southern Florida, the Carolina and Virginia coasts, Saskatchewan in north-west Canada, Nova Scotia, the Gulf of St. Lawrence, etc., and I have other expeditions in view." Married Elsie A. Curtis, of Mayville, N.D., Sept. 10, 1891. Children: Geo. Curtis, June 3, 1892; Muriel Marion, Aug. 22, 1896. He has had the misfortune of losing two other children. Address, Kent, Conn.

ARTHUR TREADWAY JOHNSON. Lawyer, office, 60 State street, Boston. Is a trustee of the Public Library and member of the School Committee of the town of Weston, where he lives. Married Helen M. Smith, of Medway, Mass., Dec. 25, 1897. Has three children: Mary Lydstone, Dec. 15, 1898; Helen Treadway, Nov. 22, 1903; and Alice Ladd, April 2, 1905.

STILES PARSONS JONES. Has been secretary of the Voters' League of Minneapolis since November, 1903, with office at 718 New York Life building. This is a permanent organization which works along non-partisan lines for municipal betterment, and his duties as secretary occupy all his time. He was private secretary to Mayor D. P.

Jones of Minneapolis in 1902. Is a member of the advisory committee of the National Municipal League. Member of various political and social service clubs. Married Helen L. MacKinley, of Poughkeepsie, N.Y., Nov. 23, 1898. He writes: "Since the last report in which I figured I have been mainly engaged in my old line of service — newspaper work — mainly in Minneapolis and St. Paul, with municipal and state affairs my special field. I worked in Boston the last few months of 1894 and all of 1895, and in Chicago during the last six months of 1896. I spent most of the year of 1894 on a New York farm recuperating. I have held no public positions, save for the last half of the year 1902, when I was private secretary to Mayor David P. Jones of Minneapolis. This was during the interregnum caused by the sudden departure of the notorious Mayor Ames from the city. I helped some to clean up the town following the bad mess he left us in. I was 'called' to my present service in November, 1903, and have been pounding away ever since. The special field of the organization is the City Council and the Board of County Commissioners. The purpose is to drive the grafters from the public service, elect honest and capable men to office, and educate the public in affairs municipal. The organization is strictly non-partisan. In connection with this work I have made extensive studies of municipal questions, notably the direct primary, city charters, direct legislation, municipal ownership, and finance franchises and operations of public service companies. My most notable traveling event was in connection with a trip of some six or seven weeks, late in 1906, for the purpose of studying city problems on the grounds. I made personal investigation in a dozen of the large Eastern cities. I expect to continue this work next year. My only publication of any note is a paper printed in the 1906 book of the National Municipal League on 'The Municipal Situation in Minneapolis.' I have in preparation two monographs, for later publication, on gas and street railway utilities, written in each case with special reference to charges for service, financial situation, character of franchises, and the relations of the companies to the public. These publications are designed for local 'consumption' in connection with applications for new franchises."

FRANCIS DEMETRIUS KALOPOTHAKES. Has not reported. The secretary has been informed that he has resigned the office of instructor in the University at Athens and his position as correspondent of the London Times and is now manufacturing olive oil on his farm in Arcadia, Greece.

LINDLEY MILLER KEASBEY. Professor of political science, University of Texas, Austin. Also a stock and fruit raiser "on the side." Married Nellie Sumrall, Louisville, Ky., June 8, 1892. Two children: Cornelia Sumrall, Nov. 2, 1893, and Louisa Edwina. Residence, "Inshallah," R.F.D. No. 3, Austin, Texas. He writes: "From 1894 to 1904 I lived the life of a grind in Bryn Mawr, straightening, or rather orienting, myself as best I could on this complex we call civilization, and doing a lot of writing—the 'full titles, dates, and places of publication' I omit, and advisedly withal. During these years I promoted a summer resort in Chester, Nova Scotia, —whether this is to be scored to my credit or no, I leave for the cottagers and hotel guests to say. (Our old friend of the office, C.J., I remember was one of the first of these, but that is by the way.) Three years ago I was called down here to take charge of the School of Political Science in the University of Texas. I've had my hands full in this big State, but I like it a lot. As a side issue I've taken to fancy stock raising and fruit growing. I'm not exaggerating, —but all Texans do, so I'll desist. If you don't believe me ask Dean Briggs, whom we had the pleasure of entertaining this year. Down here we don't discuss politics (it's dangerous) in polite society or university circles, so I'll say nothing, save this: since leaving college I've had nothing to weaken and everything to strengthen my socialistic tendencies and so the simple word 'Socialist' sums up the part I have taken and do take in politics. As for public addresses, I'm a bursting barrel they tap on all occasions, it's part of my profession, I suppose, and it doesn't hurt me if the public can stand for it. Before our twentieth anniversary I confidently expected to have my magnum opus for sale on the stalls, but, sad to say, it's still on the stocks. Only one item, a place for which I do not find in your blank, — In Germany I used to visit one Bassermann (now in the Reichstag), the son of the proprietor of the famous Deidesheimer vineyard. From him I learned much of the ancient art of wine making and for years I've been eager to try my hand at it. At last the opportunity has come and my cellar is started, so by the time our next anniversary comes around you must remind me to send on a cask of my finest and oldest Inshallah Special in lieu of a report."

MICHAEL EDWARD KELLEY. Lawyer, 71 Nassau street, New York. Married Ora Jansen, of High Falls, N.Y., Aug. 3, 1907. Residence, 46 Westervelt avenue, New Brighton, Staten Island, New York.

RALPH AVERILL KELLOGG. Lawyer, member of firm of Kellogg & Baker, 546 Ellecott square, Buffalo, N.Y. Member of Saturn, Country, and Ellecott Clubs, Buffalo; Harvard Club of New York, and "usual collection of miscellaneous societies of no general interest." He is a private in the Republican ranks politically and says "my policy has been to seek or accept no office, social or political, on the simple theory that there are always plenty of others who like such things. My law work, with an occasional promotion venture in connection therewith, continues to interest me deeply and this interest will, I think, continue to the end. A quiet, pleasant life with no events of general interest." Married Ellen Kemp Chester, of Clinton, Oneida County, N.Y., Aug. 25, 1896. Residence, 76 Johnson Park, Buffalo, N.Y.

FREDERIC HEDGE KENNARD. Landscape architect with office 220 Devonshire street, Boston. Residence, Dudley street, Newton Centre, Mass. Married Sarah Harrison Eisenbrey, of Philadelphia, May 27, 1896. Children: Margaret Alice, Sept. 25, 1899; Frederic Hedge, Jr., March 6, 1902; Harrison Eisenbrey, June 26, 1903; Robert Martin Parry, Sept. 1, 1904. Member of the Harvard Club, New York, Merion Cricket Club, Haverford, Pa., and numerous scientific societies. He writes: "I have little to say of interest to the class, except that year before last I was rash enough to buy some land in Newton Centre and build a house thereon, some four miles further out of town than my then residence in Brookline. I moved in last March. On looking over the last report I find that Fred Lund, for reasons of his own, insisted on leaving nameless my most recent progeny at that time. He was named after his grandfather Harrison Eisenbrey. Since then we have added another one to the list, — Robert Martin Parry Kennard, born Sept. 1, 1904. Next time you get out one of those circulars kindly leave more room for the children. I am still an alleged landscape architect doing business at 220 Devonshire street, Boston, and fellow of the American Society of Landscape Architects. I belong to a few more clubs and scientific societies than I did at the time of the last report. In answer to your next question, with regard to offices of profit, honor, or trust, I can only say that I have never had, as yet, any office of profit, at least none that I have noticed, and as I am still living in my own country, I am still a profit without honor. The rest of your questions I can only answer — nothing doing."

WILLARD ROBERT KIMBALL. Has not reported. The secretary has special reasons for asking any classmate who receives a call or letter from Kimball to report it at once.

FRANCIS KNOWLES. "Since the last class report two epochal events have occurred in my history. I have dropped my middle name and I have dropped nearly all the money I wrung from an unwilling yet numerous clientage while practising law in Newark, N.J. Shorn of these two attributes of greatness, I immigrated to New York City three or four years ago, was admitted to law practice here and am humbly but vigorously minding my own business (which of course means other people's too), with excellent prospects of acquiring a good law trade. A number of New York lawyers (among them some eighty-eight men), who find the common-law practice and procedure of the New Jersey courts too puzzling or too fatiguing for their mental comfort, hire me to look after their New Jersey business. This, together with the other work which drifts my way, keeps my law shop busy. Incidentally, a portion of the money which I said was 'dropped' is attached to a string which stretches up into Canada. I hope and expect to pull this string in after a while and find the money with barnacles of more money at the other end. Turning from sordid things to things domestic, I beg to report that Mrs. Knowles and I have a son who will enter Harvard in due time, and a daughter who vehemently lisp that she will enter 'Vatthar' some day. My permanent address is 45 Broadway, New York City." Knowles married Emma James Janett, of Philadelphia, June 17, 1891. The son is named Joseph Hughes, 2d.

PERRY LAWTON. Civil engineer at Quincy, Mass. He has not reported.

WILLIAM AUGUSTINE LEAHY. Is secretary of Music Department of the City of Boston, a position he has held for the last six years. Reports that there is nothing more to say of himself. Address, 64 Pemberton square, Boston.

GEORGE BRIDGE LEIGHTON. Is a farmer, business man, and politician. At Dublin, N.H., he owns about seventeen hundred acres of land which he calls Monadnock Farms. He personally superintends the cultivation of this. He has been prominent in the recent reform movement in New Hampshire and made an energetic campaign for election as United States Senator in December, 1906. As a protest against the domination of the Boston & Maine in political affairs in New Hampshire he has given addresses and written articles and pamphlets on railways and railway management. He is vice-president of the American Civic Association, member of the Somerset Club, Union Club of New York and other clubs, Society of the Cincinnati and Loyal Legion. He was the organizer of the Associated Harvard Clubs and was its first president. For some years he was president of the Leighton & Howard Steel Co., St. Louis, until it was merged with the American Steel Foundries. Of the latter he is a director and one of the largest owners. As long ago as 1895 he wrote an article for the Graduates' Magazine outlining a course of railway instruction that has now been adopted by the new graduate school of business training. He is the head of the New Hampshire branch of the National Red Cross, and president of an important Copper Company in Arizona. He is married and has three sons. Address, Monadnock, N.H.

ROBERT HAMILTON LELAND. Lawyer at 201 Washington street, Boston. Residence, Sherborn, Mass. Is treasurer of the town of Sherborn, treasurer of Sawin Academy, and treasurer of the Manufacturing Equipment and Engineering Company. Was a member of the Massachusetts House of Representatives in 1900. Married Cora E. Sanger, of Sherborn, June 20, 1890, and has one son, Robert Sanger, Feb. 7, 1896.

GEORGE HEYDENFELT LENT. In real estate business at San Francisco, 51 Gray street. Residence, 2229 Washington street. "A trip to Europe in April, 1906, was cut short by a fire which started mysteriously in this city (San Francisco) about the eighteenth of April same year. I shall be glad to send particulars to any classmate who may have heard of it."

ROBERT COLEMAN LE ROY. Reports he has been traveling steadily for thirteen years. Member of the Union Club, New York City, which is his permanent address.

LEO RICH LEWIS. Professor of music at Tufts College. Writes he has published a good many articles: "If you (the secretary) really think they ought to go in I will make a list. The next 'Who's Who' will have 'em." He is a member of the Eastern Educational Music Conference, American Music Society, and New England Modern Language Association. Married Carrie Nichols Bullard, of Brookline, Dec. 21, 1892. One son, Philip Bullard, June 19, 1895. Residence at Tufts College, Somerville, Mass.

CHARLES JACOB LIVINGOOD. Through failing health from overwork was compelled to give up business in autumn of 1904 and went abroad with his family for a complete rest. Spent one winter on the French Riviera and the next in Munich and at St. Moritz, with frequent journeys, many on foot, through Switzerland, Italy, and Provence, where he again took up his hobbies, Petrarch, the Troubadours and the Felibres. Returned, fit for work again, in the summer of 1906, and while not actively engaged in the business of Thomas Emery's Sons is connected with the management of the estate of Thomas J. Emery in Cincinnati, Ohio. Member of Literary, Harvard, University, and Country Clubs of Cincinnati, and Harvard Club of New York. Married, Dec. 30, 1896, Lilly Broadwell Foster, at Cincinnati. Children: Nathaniel Foster, Dec. 29, 1897, died July 9, 1898; Josephine Lytle, Oct. 3, 1900; John Jacob, March 7, 1903; Elizabeth Treon, Oct. 26, 1907. Residence, Baker place, East Walnut Hills, Cincinnati. Address, Care Thomas Emery's Sons, 414 Walnut street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

JAMES LOEB. Reports himself as officially an idler but with a plenty to do. Is now living in Munich, Bavaria, at 14 Konradstrasse. Is a member of the Players', Harvard, and City Clubs of New York, the Colonial Club of Cambridge, the British Society for the Promotion of Hellenic Studies. In 1906 published a translation of "Uripides and the Spirit of his Dramas," by Paul Decharme. He writes: "Since the summer of 1905 I have been living in Europe and I have now brought all my lares and penates from home and established myself among them at 14 Konradstrasse. Here I shall always be most happy to welcome our classmates, should any of them seek Munich for purposes of business, health or pleasure. Many hard knocks to my own health have pretty conclusively convinced me that life in the stirring, restless atmosphere of our beloved country is not for me, and so I have reluctantly made up my mind to choose a place where in silence and the 'cloistered walls' one breathes a serener air. My time is pretty well taken up with literary works and I am devoting much attention to the closer study of Greek Archæology—the object that has been nearest to my heart since boyhood days. Delightful hours are also spent in the studio trying by personal experience to learn why it is that we moderns cannot approach the ancients in sculpture. Music has also a large share in my life and string quartettes are a source of never-failing delight. So much for my activities—at home they would hardly be dignified with that name. My thoughts naturally dwell more in America than here and often turn with wistful affections to the days now so long ago when we dwelt together so blissfully ignorant of the real world and its trials under the shade of dear old Harvard's elms. It is with keen regret that I recognize the impossibility of being with you all for our twentieth anniversary this coming June. I beg you to convey my affectionate greetings to all our classmates."

WILLIAM BROWN LORD. Is in mining business, office 27 Pine street, New York City. Residence, 13 West 36th street. He is a member of the Union Club and Whist Club. He writes: "I left Cambridge June 1886. I got killed Oct. 29, 1892 (see the New York Sun of Oct. 20, 1892), but refused to stay dead."

FRED BATES LUND. Surgeon, office 529 Beacon street, Boston. His family has been increased by one son, Joseph Wheelock, Jr., Aug. 31, 1905. He is a member of the Tavern Club, Brookline Country Club, Automobile Club, Union Boat Club, and numerous medical societies, and has published many medical articles and delivered addresses on such subjects. Is assistant visiting surgeon to the Boston City Hospital and a member of the State Commission having charge of the Medfield Insane Asylum.

JAMES McCORMICK. Is in charge of editing and proofreading topographical maps for the U.S. Geological Survey. Is a member of the Cosmos Club, Washington, D.C., National Geographical Society, and Gaelic Society of Washington. Has prepared a second edition of a Geographical Dictionary of Alaska, published by the Government printing office in 1906. Married Suzanne Eloise Thompkins, of Louisville, Ky., March 16, 1892. One son, Wright, May 28, 1904. His legal residence is Cheshire, Mass., but his place of abode is the Albemarle, Washington, D.C. McCormick received the degree of C.E. from the Lawrence Scientific School in 1888, having been in attendance but two years, however. In 1886-1887 was a sophomore in the class of 1889 and the second year a senior in the class of '88.

ROWLAND BLENNERHASSETT MAHANY. Is living at Buffalo, N.Y., his address being care Union and Times Press, corner Erie and Franklin streets. The secretary regrets that he has no further information.

RICHARD CLARKE MANNING. Is professor of Latin at Kenyon College, Gambier, Ohio. He has spent the summers of 1905 and 1907 in California, and of 1908 in England.

FRANCIS SKIDDY MARDEN. Is a stockbroker, member of the firm of Britton, Marden & Co., 111 Broadway, New York. Was married April 29, 1893, to Fannie Louise Clark, in New York City. Children: Francis Skiddy, Jr., Dec. 16, 1894; Ruth Requa, April 29, 1898; Alice Clark, Sept. 24, 1899. Residence in winter, 327 West 76th street, and in summer Norfolk, Conn. In March, 1899, became associated with the firm of Dominick & Dominick, 100 Broadway, in charge of their investment department. He left them on Jan. 1, 1908, and on May 1 commenced business with the above entitled firm. He is a member of the Union, University, and Harvard Clubs of New York, Harvard Club, Connecticut, St. Nicholas Society, and the Economic Club. President Washington Storage Warehouse & Van Co., director and member of the Executive Committee Columbian National Life Insurance Company, third vice-president American Investment Securities Company.

George Edward Marsh, Jr. He was born Aug. 27, 1865, at Haverhill, Mass., the son of George Edward and Mary E. Marsh. In 1869 his parents removed to Lynn, Mass., where he was trained in the private and public schools, being graduated from the Lynn High School in the class of '84 as classic essayist. Entering college without conditions, he applied himself to the classics with the intention of fitting himself for teaching. After working in several posts, he was, in June, 1900, elected senior classical master at the Pingry School, Elizabeth, N.J. He at once threw himself into his work with great enthusiasm. He never spared himself, though cautioned again and again by his physician not to overwork. No hour of the day or night was reserved for himself. If a boy needed advice he instinctively turned to Marsh; if he needed help in any of his lessons, it was to Marsh he went. No man could endure such a strain. In April, 1904, Marsh was suddenly stricken with apoplexy. By sheer force of will he made a partial recovery. From June, 1904, to his decease on Aug. 15, 1906, he never lost hope that he would completely recover. During all this time he planned and tried to direct the work of the classical department at Pingry. Marsh was a man of strong character; strong in his likes and dislikes, but fair-minded. He had the shyness of the scholar, but those whom he loved knew the loftiness of his character and his consuming desire to be of service to his neighbor. He was unmarried.

EDWARD CAMPBELL MASON. Is a lawyer, office 82 Devonshire street, Boston, Mass. Married, Oct. 6, 1902, to Martha Sprague, of Arlington, Mass. Residence, Bedford, Mass. As a result of overwork Mason was compelled for a time to give up the practise of his profession. He has been so fortunate as to completely recover his health and to be able to resume.

HENRY L. MASON. Is in business of the manufacture of organs and pianos with Mason & Hamlin Co., Boston, at 492 Boylston street. He has written "The Modern Artistic Pianoforte — its Construction," Boston, 1901; and "The History and Development of the American Cabinet Organ," Boston, 1900. Married Estelle Kimball, of Boston, June 8, 1907. One daughter, Helen Hart, March 15, 1908. Residence, 188 Bay State road, Boston, Mass.

GEORGE HERBERT MEAD. Writes: "Nothing of moment has occurred that calls for a report since the last report was made, except advance from associate professorship to professorship of philosophy." Mead is at the University of Chicago, and he should be addressed there.

FREDERICK HOWARD MEANS. Is a Congregational minister, not at present in pastorate, but supplying pulpits. Residence, 8 Fairview terrace, Winchester. Married Helen Chandler Coit, of Winchester, May 25, 1893. Children: Paul Howard, Nov. 1, 1894; Gardiner Coit, June 6, 1896; Winthrop Johnson, July 26, 1899. Is a member of the Puddingstone Club, Boston; Winchester Boat Club; member of the Winchester School Committee and secretary of the board of trustees of Atlanta University. He has written "Recent Aspects of Immigration," pamphlet published in October, 1907, by the Congregational Home Missionary Society of New York. He writes: "My home for the last five years has been in Winchester, Mass. Though not pastor of a church, I have continued to preach a part of the time, and have been otherwise engaged in religious work. Two organizations to which I have given much time, though not in an official relation, have been the Religious Education Association and the Young People's Missionary Movement."

WILLIAM STETSON MERRILL. Is chief of classification in Newberry Library, Chicago, Ill. Has made various contributions to library and religious periodicals and in 1906 and 1907 was assistant editor of the New World published in Chicago. Married Mary Hancock Allen, Chicago, June 13, 1896. Children: John Hancock, Oct. 10, 1900; Wilfred Allen, Sept. 14, 1901; Margaret Mary, March 10, 1903, died July 9, 1903; Harold Stetson, Dec. 8, 1904. Member of the American Library Association, Chicago Library Club, Catholic Writers' Guild, St. Vincent de Paul Society, and Ravenswood Musical Club. Residence, 2872 North Paulina street, Chicago.

HARRY FESSENDEN MESERVE. Has made three trips around the world and is now living at Unsan, Korea. Married Helen Struve McCulsky, of London, England, Sept. 10, 1902. Is a member of the Yokohama United Club, Yokohama, Japan; Seoul Club, Seoul, Korea; Chemulpo Club, Chemulpo, Korea. He writes: "I am still acting as general manager of the American Gold Mining Concession in Korea. This American Concession, granted in 1896, covers five hundred square miles of territory, and now employs over five thousand native laborers. Since last report have made another trip around the world with several trips to China and Japan." Address, care Oriental Consolidated Mining Company, Chemulpo, Korea.

JOHN H. METZEROTT. Has not reported to any of the communications sent him and the secretary is unable to give any information.

HARRY ROBERTS MILES. Has recently accepted a call to the pastorate of the First Congregational Church of Berkeley, Cal., and expected to take up his work there by Dec. 1, 1908. He has been pastor of the Central Congregational Church of Brattleboro, Vt. Is director of the Brattleboro Memorial Hospital, Brattleboro Free Library, Domestic Missionary Society of the American Board of Missions, and of the New England Congregational Congress. Married Helen A. Clark, of New Haven, Conn., Nov. 8, 1894. Children: Margaret, Dec. 19, 1896; John Shepley, Dec. 21, 1899. He writes: "My life is the uneventful and busy one of a minister, as much occupied in affairs of the community as in church work. As director of a new and endowed hospital I have had as much to do with doctors as with ministers during the last three years and I find both good fellows." Miles was in Europe during the summer of 1908, sailing just before commencement.

WALTER SANDS MILLS. Is a physician, 324 West 89th street, New York City, and is a member of the Harvard Club, New York, Sons of Revolution, and many medical societies. Is president of the Homeopathic Medical Society of the county of New York; attending physician Tuberculosis Infirmary, Metropolitan Hospital, Department of Public Charities, and lecturer on practice of medicine at New York Homeopathic Medical College. Has published a history of Ward's Island Metropolitan Hospital, 1900; and recently an account of the Tuberculosis Infirmary and its work at that place. Mills received the degree of M.D. from New York Homeopathic Medical College in '99; and in '07 the degree of A.B. from Columbia. Married Sylvie Laure de Long, New York City, a daughter of late Lieut. Commander George W. de Long, United States Navy, the Arctic explorer. Children: Emma de Long, Sept. 26, 1894; De Long, Aug. 6, 1897.

WILLIAM ELLIGOOD MILLS. Was a special student in the Lawrence Scientific School from 1884 to 1886, and as such was connected with the class of '88. He is a farmer at Waitsfield, Vt. Married Gertrude Hutchings, of Yosemite Valley, Cal., at San Francisco, Sept. 27, 1899. Children: William Elligood, Jr., Aug. 12, 1900; David Leonard, April 1, 1902; Hiram Francis, April 14, 1905.

SIDNEY ROBY MINER. Is a lawyer, 401 Coal Exchange building, Wilkes-Barre, Pa. He is a member of the Harvard Club, of Northeastern, Pa., Harvard Club, New York City, Pennsylvania Bar Association, American Bar Association, Society of the War of 1812, Citizens' Industrial Association of America, Indian Rights Association, Wyoming Valley Society for the Prevention and Treatment of Tuberculosis, Pennsylvania Forestry Association, Wyoming Valley Country Club, Westmoreland Club, Civic League, etc., etc. Is secretary of the Wyoming Historical and Geological Society, and a director of the Miner-Hillard Milling Company, and Lackawannock Street Railway Company. He is also a member of the Vestry of St. Stephen's Church.

WILLIAM MITCHELL. Has not replied to any letters, and the secretary has no information.

CHARLES DEVERD MUSAUS. Is a lawyer and banker and broker at Cleveland, Ohio. Married Dora B. Wood, San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 14, 1901. He writes: "I enclose you a blank which is still a blank in many places. Something might perhaps be applied to some of the questions, but if so, it would sound better on a quiet evening before a camp-fire or a library grate with a pipe and a bottle of favorite tippie. I cannot seem to make any of my adventures look very interesting in print." Address, Lamprecht Bros. & Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

WILLIAM NELSON. Vice-president of the Nashville Trust Company, Nashville, Tenn., and interested in cotton manufacturing. Member of the Watanga Club and fraternal organizations. Has served as a member of Nashville City Board of Education. Married Nellie Thomas, of Nashville, April 8, 1890. Children: Helen, Feb. 24, 1892; Charles, Dec. 15, 1895; Mary E., Aug. 8, 1897. Residence, 2408 West End avenue, Nashville, Tenn.

FRANCIS LISTER HAWKES NOBLE. He lives in Cambridge. He has not replied to any requests for information.

RUPERT NORTON. Assistant superintendent of Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, Md. In September, 1906, he left Paris, where he had been acting for six and one-half years as medical director of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York City for France and the Levant, as the Company closed its Paris office. He returned to the United States and during 1907 was acting superintendent of the Johns Hopkins Hospital in the absence of Dr. Hurd.

WILLIAM KIMBALL NORTON. Teacher, Boys' Latin School, Boston, Mass. Married Lilla Marion, Boston, on June 28, 1888. Children: Marion, Nov. 12, 1889; Harvard, Dec. 24, 1891. Residence, 209 Park street, West Roxbury.

PETER JOSEPH O'CALLAGHAN. Is a priest and is superior of the Paulist Fathers in Chicago, and rector of St. Mary's Church. He is also State chaplain of the Catholic Total Abstinence Union of Illinois, a director of the Citizens' League, and of the Juvenile Protective League, chaplain of the Illinois Relief Corps, and a member of the National Municipal League and National Health League. He has delivered very many public addresses and has made many journeys in this country and Canada in connection with missionary work. He writes: "The obligation of writing something more than a few bare facts is a correlative of our common desire to know how all our classmates are doing. The recognition of this obligation, insisted on by you, bids me say that I have been in Chicago since the fall of 1903. The Paulist Fathers have charge of old St. Mary's, which is the oldest parish in the city, dating back to the days when Chicago was a frontier settlement. The parish now embraces the downtown district of the city. It contains the extremes of humanity, and it forces on us the consideration of all sorts of social, moral, and religious problems. I have, personally, been deeply interested in such problems, and have tried to meet them rather than to solve them. I have had very little time for anything outside of what duty here has demanded of me. Last summer I had the honor of conducting the religious services in the University of Chicago, at which Abbe Felix Klein preached on the 'Common Creed of Christendom.' Last fall I addressed the divinity students of that university upon the 'Fundamentals of the Catholic Religion.' These two events interested me more than any of the many other and more public occasions at which I spoke." Address, 490 Wabash avenue, Chicago, Ill.

NATHAN OPPENHEIM. Physician, 50 East 79th street, New York City. Member of the Harvard Club, New York, Academy of Medicine, American Medical Association, State and County Medical Associations, Metropolitan Medical Society. He is attending physician to Children's Department of Lebanon Hospital, neurologist to New York City Children's Hospital, chairman of executive committee and member of board of managers of Kindergarten Association. Has published a book on the development of children and the diseases of children and numerous addresses and magazine articles. Married Bertha Elsberg, of New York City, June 15, 1897.

HERMAN PAGE. Episcopal clergyman, rector of St. Paul's Church, Chicago. Member of the University, City, and Literary Clubs of Chicago, trustee of St. Luke's Hospital, member of the General Board of Missions, Episcopal Church, trustee or member of several boards of religious and charitable organizations. Received degree of D.D. from Western University of Pennsylvania in June, 1906. As to public addresses he writes: "Constantly on about every conceivable topic. I am amazed at my audacity, but I can't decently help myself. It is a part of being a minister." Married Mary Moorhead Riddle, of Pittsburg, Pa., June 25, 1891. Has one son, Herman Riddle Page, May 3, 1892. The secretary ventures to state what Page would be unwilling to state himself—that he has made St. Paul's parish one of the largest and most progressive and efficient in Chicago.

ROBERT TREAT PAINE, JR. Is director or trustee of various real estate and development companies, and of sundry charitable institutions. Office, 89 State street, Boston, Mass. Is a member of the executive committee of National Municipal League and president of the National Public Opinion League. In July, 1907, he published in the Arena an article on "Massachusetts' Historic Attitude in Regard to Representative Government." Has delivered public addresses in the cause of good citizenship, municipal reform, etc. Paine has changed his politics and for the last six years has been a Roosevelt Republican. Married Marie Louise Mattingly, Washington, D.C., Dec. 7, 1898. Children: Dorothy, Sept. 5, 1899; Robert Treat, 3d, Dec. 15, 1900. Residence, 1 Queensbury street, Boston, Mass.; in summer, Prides Crossing, Mass.

BRADLEY WEBSTER PALMER. Lawyer; member of firm of Story, Thorndike, Palmer & Thayer, 53 State street, Boston, Mass. Is a member of the Tennis and Racquet Club, Country Club, and Myopia Hunt Club. Is a director of several companies, his work having taken him pretty largely into the business end of the law. Has been several times to Europe, Mexico, and Central America, and passed the winter of 1907 and 1908 in Mexico. Residence, 140 Beacon street, Boston, and at Topsfield, Mass.

FRANKLIN DIXON PEALE. Is a lawyer at 68 William street, New York. Is a member of the University and Harvard Clubs of New York, Harvard Club of New Jersey, Highland Club, Canoe Brook Club, and Monday Night Club. Married Martha Vail Tufts, of Elizabeth, N.J., on April 17, 1895. Children: Franklin Vail, April 24, 1896; Rodgers, Dec. 29, 1897; Samuel Randolph, Feb. 4, 1905; Dixon, May 16, 1906. Lives at Summit, N.J., where he has taken an active interest in local politics as an Independent Democrat, and is a member of the local health board.

EDWARD ALLEN PEASE. Surgeon, office and residence, 1684 Beacon street, Boston, Mass. Is surgeon at Boston Dispensary; assistant surgeon of the Free Hospital for Women for seven years; surgeon Carney Hospital five years, and instructor in surgery Tufts Medical School. He has written a few monographs on medical subjects. Married Margaret Caldwell Mohler, of Washington, D.C., at New York, Nov. 12, 1904. Children: Althea Julia, Aug. 1, 1905; Edward Allen, Jr., Nov. 27, 1906. Is a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society, American Medical Association, and American Academy of Medicine, Country Club, Brookline, St. Botolph Club, Union Boat Club, Harvard Musical Association, Society of Colonial Wars, Myopia and Essex Country Clubs, and New York Harvard Club. Pease spent the summer of 1904 abroad, attending the Medical Congress at Oxford for a short time. Since then he has spent the summers at Woodstock Inn, Vermont, and Magnolia, Mass. He writes: "After our last class reunion I decided not to drive my own automobile, for I nearly killed my good friends, Brewer and Baldwin, driving home from the Country Club, and found runabouts were not intended to jump stone walls. I still use an electric for my town work, but they are safe for the average man and in seven thousand miles I have not done any harm." In December and January, 1907 and 1908, Pease was in Florida at the Canaveral Club duck shooting. He also shot an alligator seven and a half feet long.

MORTON R. PECK. Writes: "I entered Harvard with the class of '88, but as a 'special' student took but two years' course preparatory to taking up my medical studies at the 'P. & S.' in New York. My home and permanent address is now at Cornwall-on-Hudson, New York." Peck practised medicine in New York for twelve or thirteen years before going to Cornwall.

HENRY PENNYPACKER. Is a teacher at the Boston Latin School, Boston, Mass. Member of the Hamilton Association and Harvard Musical Association. Married, Philadelphia, Pa., June 20, 1889, Anna Hollingshead Carpenter. One son, Thomas Ruston, born Dec. 20, 1894. Residence, 6 Chauncy street, Cambridge. He writes: "There must be few members of the class whose life current flows on so smoothly and uneventfully as mine. As I describe myself in this (unsworn) statement, I am a school teacher—an office not of profit surely, but certainly of honor and, to my thinking, of trust as well. In this last twenty years my work has brought me into contact with more than two thousand boys, most of whom were about to enter college. What my influence upon them has been I pass over, but this I know, that it is good for any man to count younger men among his friends and keep himself young thereby. My association with these young men, coming as they have from every sphere of life, has taught me a multitude of things too numerous to recount and too subtle to describe. But I know the experience has been steadily beneficial to me from year to year in quickening my sympathies and in giving me some glimpse of the significance of life. I wish I could tell you something of interest for this report, but I cannot. I enjoy good health, belong to a happy household, find plenty of work, have a few loyal friends; what is there more?"

VALENTINE MOTT PIERCE. Is proprietor of the Pierce Glass Works and secretary and manager of the World's Dispensary Medical Association. Co-editor of Every Day Life Magazine with offices at 663 Main street, Buffalo, N.Y. Is a member of the Buffalo and Ellecott Clubs of Buffalo. Holds the degree of M.D. from Buffalo University 1891. Married Marion Young in 1897 at Miami, Florida. Residence, 274 Delaware avenue, Buffalo, N.Y.

EDMUND PLATT. Editor of Poughkeepsie Eagle. Office, 8 Liberty street, Poughkeepsie, N.Y. Is a member of the Amrita Club, Civic League, University Club of Dutchess County, and several local institutions, trustee of the Vassar Bros. Institution and the Poughkeepsie City Library. Has served on two different city boards and has published a history of Poughkeepsie in 1904. Married Adele Innis, of Poughkeepsie, June 23, 1892. Residence, 36 Carroll street, Poughkeepsie, N.Y. Platt had been in business for fifteen years associated in the publication of the Poughkeepsie Eagle with his father, and upon his death in May, 1907, succeeded to the control of the paper, which was founded by his grandfather in 1828 and has been continuously in the possession of the family. His younger brother is now associated with him. He writes: "We have been more than busy trying, and with considerable success, to keep the old eagle soaring, not only at the same high altitude as before, but to increase its outlook."

FREDERICK PLUMMER. Note broker, 24 Milk street, Boston, Mass. Member of the Newton Boat Club, and Woodland Golf Club. Residence, 155 Woodland road, Auburndale, Mass.

HENRY MERRIHEW PLUMMER. Is a life insurance agent connected with the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company. Office, 140 Congress street, Boston, Mass. Member of the Boston City Club and Wamsutta Club of New Bedford. He is also president of the Denison-Plummer Corporation of New Bedford. In 1906 he published a pamphlet, "Over the Counter Life Insurance." Married Alice Hussey, of New Bedford, Sept. 12, 1888. Children: Charles W., 2d, 1890; Henry Merrihew, Jr., 1892; Morgan H., 1894; Thomas R., 2d, 1900. He says his travels have been confined to daily trips between Sharon, Mass., his residence, and Boston. He writes briefly: "There are no riches to be compared in value to those measured by friendships preserved and gained. In this respect I feel that since the last class report I have prospered beyond my due."

HENRY TEMPLE POPE. Is manager of the Chickamauga Knitting Mills of Chattanooga, Tenn. He reports that a reply to the secretary's circular is simple as honors and important events have not troubled him. He has been South since early in 1899, and says he has about forgotten that he was ever a Yankee. Married Jessie Lenora Colburn, Fort Payne, Ala., April 27, 1893, and has three children.

CHARLES ALLEN PORTER. Surgeon, 254 Beacon street, Boston. Is a member of the University Club, Boston, Harvard Club, New York; president Boylston

Medical Society. Is on the staff of the Massachusetts General Hospital and New England Baptist Hospital, and is instructor in surgery at the Harvard Medical School. He has delivered numerous addresses to medical societies, and one in the popular lecture course at the new Harvard Medical School. He is also a member of various medical societies. As to his writings he says: "All have been papers before medical associations and medical meetings or in journals, most of them not decent for any one even to know the title." Married Margaret Cochran Dewar, of Glasgow, at Stirling, Scotland, April 13, 1898. Children: Isabel DeCourcy, Sept. 21, 1902; Margaret Dewar, Jan. 20, 1904; and Charles Burnham, 2d, July 28, 1906.

EDWARD BIGLEY PRATT. Is a lawyer, a member of the firm of Gibbs & Pratt, 704 Tremont building, Boston, Mass. Is associate justice of the Second District Court of Plymouth County, clerk of the board of trustees of the Hingham Public Library, and a member of the school committee of that town. Has seen considerable service in the Massachusetts militia, having served in the 1st Corps Cadets, as 1st lieutenant in the 5th Infantry, and now as regimental adjutant of the same regiment. He writes: "Have written no books nor done anything else to make me famous, unless trying to teach auto drivers to realize that the public highway is not a racing track and should not be used as one." Married Alice L. Fearing, of Hingham, Nov. 14, 1901. Residence, Hingham, Mass.

HENRY ALLSTON PULSFORD. Is a physician at South Orange, N.J. Residence, 139 South Orange avenue, South Orange, N.J. He has recently devoted himself exclusively to dermatology and allied branches. Is a member of the American Medical Association, New Jersey State Medical Society, and several local medical societies. He was a member of the junior staff Orange Memorial Hospital, 1904-1908; and consulting dermatologist, 1907 and 1908. He was also surgeon of the New Jersey Orthopaedic Hospital 1903 to 1907; and holds degree of M.D. from New York College of Physicians 1891. Married Arian Gertrude Baldwin, of South Orange, Dec. 10, 1895. Children: Henry Allston, Jr., Dec. 5, 1896, and James Arnold, April 1, 1900. He writes: "My life so far has been so unceasingly busy and monotonously happy that its history is easily written. I have managed to make a living at my profession, in which I hope my work has been honest and conscientious; and if neither riches nor favor have come my way I do not feel ill used, for I have done nothing to deserve either."

GEORGE ROYAL PULSIFER. The secretary can't report on himself — what he says must be in the nature of an apology and confession, except in one matter, for which he makes no apologies whatever, — he is secretary of the class of '88. I am still struggling with the practice of law — sometimes the law seems to be on top — occasionally I have a hope that I am going to get on top of it. I am still associated with Bailey, Dickinson and Bolster, although the last named now is classed as a judge, not as a lawyer. I have become interested in various outside affairs in my own city of Newton, very much as I find my classmates are wherever they are placed. For six years I was a member of the Newton Board of Health, resigning in October, 1908. I am treasurer of the Newton Hospital and a member of its executive committee. I am a member of the small corporation known as the New Church Institute of Education, which conducts a school in Waltham, Mass. For recreation I spend as much of every summer as I can on an island on the Maine coast where I live what is a very fair resemblance to a "simple life," and in winter I amuse myself at amateur theatricals. There is no change in my family since the last report. One of my boys is on the road to Harvard, but won't arrive there for several years. My office address is 412 Barristers Hall, Boston, Mass., and my home 20 Birch Hill road, Newtonville.

WILLIAM RAND, JR. Lawyer, New York City, at 63 Wall street, member of the firm of Rand, Moffatt and Webb. Member of Harvard, University, Down Town Clubs, Bar Association, American Art Club, Apawamis Club, and American Sons of Revolution. Was assistant corporation counsel for New York City from 1895 to 1897, and assistant district attorney for New York County 1902 to 1906. On Commencement Day, 1908, he was elected member of the Board of Overseers of Harvard College. Was married June 15, 1892, to Rosalie Crockett, of Medford, Mass. Sons: William Rand, 2d, Dec. 1, 1895; Robert Crockett, Jan. 23, 1898. Residence, Rye, Westchester County, New York.

ALBERT WOOD RANTOUL. Accountant, Boston, Mass., with firm of Perry, Coffin and Burr, 60 State street. Member of the Oldtown Country Club of Newburyport. Married Edith Congdon, Cambridge, Aug. 26, 1905. One son, Robert, Jan. 13, 1907. Residence, Newburyport, Mass.

JOHN EARLE REYNOLDS. Is a lawyer at Meadville, Pa. Is a member of the University Club of New York, Iroquois Boat Club of Conneaut Lake, and Taylor Hose Club of Meadville. Is president of Crawford County Mutual Fire Insurance Company, and Meadville Gas and Water Company. Vice-president Meadville Maleable Iron Works Company, and secretary and treasurer of the Meadville, Conneaut Lake and Linesville Railroad Company, and a director of the Merchants' National Bank of Meadville, Meadville City Hospital and Library, Art and Historical Association. He served two years as a member of the City Council and in 1904 was elected Mayor of Meadville for a term of three years, and has also served two terms on the local Board of Health, of which he is now president.

F. J. REYNOLDS. Has not replied to communications and his present address is unknown. When last heard from he was engaged in work at the Congressional Library at Washington.

FRANK CLINTON ROBY. Lawyer at 122 North Water street, Decatur, Ill. Residence at 462 West Macon street, in the same city. He is a member of local clubs, lodges, etc. Was married at Chicago to Ida M. Gordon Sept. 19, 1893. Children: Helen Elizabeth, June 29, 1894; Kilburn H., 3d, Oct. 23, 1898; and Frank C., Jr., Dec. 17, 1900.

CHARLES BUTLER ROGERS. Is in business at Utica, N.Y. He is president of the First National Bank of Utica, N.Y., and trustee and treasurer of Hamilton College, and also director in various corporations. Married Eugenie Doumaux at Dayton, Ohio, May 3, 1900. Children: Elizabeth Butler, Jan. 10, 1903, died in infancy; Annette Doumaux, June 6, 1904; Philip V., Feb. 7, 1907. Residence, Hawthorn Farm, Clinton, N.Y.

CHARLES JOSEPH ROLFE. Lawyer at 15 Beacon street, Boston. Member of the Boston City Club. Married Josephine Jefferson at Buzzards Bay, Mass., June 29, 1896. Has one daughter, Josephine Jefferson, born Dec. 10, 1898. Residence, 405 Broadway, Cambridge. As to his journeys Rolfe writes: "Too many to mention; once to New York City, once each to Fall River and New Bedford and return."

WILLIAM ROPES. Is treasurer of the Standard Electric Lamp Company at Newark, N.J. Married Grace

E. Thorn, of New York, Feb. 19, 1891. One daughter, Marcellite Thorn, July 28, 1898. Ropes lived for over eleven years at Poughkeepsie, but within the last year has moved to East Orange, in order to be near his business and New York.

Henry Warren Sampson. Died at Southport, Conn., Oct. 5, 1907. Sampson for the last three years had been living very quietly at Southport, his health being broken.

At a meeting of the class held on Commencement Day, 1908, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, We have learned with great sorrow of the death at Southport, Conn., on Oct. 5, 1907, of our classmate

HENRY WARREN SAMPSON.

Resolved, That we hold in affectionate remembrance his kindness and generosity during the years of our companionship with him, and that we record our admiration of the fortitude with which in the last years of his life he fought against disease, and of the spirit which moved him to devote those last years to the succor and relief of the unfortunate.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to his mother.

EDWARD HOSMER SAVARY. Is a lawyer at 47 Court street, Boston. His residence is at Groveland, Mass. He reports having delivered the Memorial Day Address at Groveland, Mass., May, 1905, and having given some political speeches in favor of Governor Guild in the campaign against Moran in 1906.

JAMES ALFRED SAXE. Lawyer, Worcester, Mass., devoting himself almost entirely to title examination. Is a member of the Worcester Antiquity Society, Commonwealth Club, and the Tatnuck Country Club. Married Mary Wick, Cleveland, Ohio, June 22, 1892. Residence, 20 Cedar street, Worcester. Like his brother "Jim" Saxe holds a varied assortment of degrees, having A.B. from Wesleyan in 1885, and Harvard in 1888; A.M. from Wesleyan in 1888, and LL.B. Harvard 1892. In 1907 and 1908 he took a trip around the world with his wife, arriving home only a short time before June.

JOHN WALTER SAXE. Lawyer at room 75, 16 State street, Boston, Mass. Is a member of the University Club, Boston, Harvard Musical Association, Boston Bar Association, and the American Bar Association. He holds the degrees of A.B. from Wesleyan 1885 and from Harvard in 1888; A.M. from Wesleyan in 1888, and LL.B. from Union in 1890 and Harvard in 1892. Married Sara F. Burtis, Brooklyn, N.Y., April 11, 1899. Children: Eleanor, April 8, 1900; John Burtis, July 27, 1902; Burtis James, Oct. 22, 1904. Residence, 424 Walnut street, Brookline, Mass.

BERNARD T. SCHERMERHORN. Is assistant treasurer of the Lewiston-Clarkston Company, of Clarkston, Washington. Married at Boston, Nov. 20, 1897, Madeleine West, of Elizabeth, N.J. One daughter, Eleanor, born Nov. 27, 1901. He writes in spring of 1908: "The only journey I have taken was to Boston and New York last summer and so, you may imagine, was something of a 'continuous performance,' being my first trip East in ten years. The time passed so quickly I had not done or seen half what I meant to make sure of, before I found myself in the train returning. If possible I mean to be at the round up next June in order to see the brands you fellows have been marked with in these last ten years, but if I do not get there give my very best and kindest remembrances to '88."

JOHN HUNTER SEDGEWICK. For the past few years he has been traveling and studying abroad, having wandered about extensively. His address is care Brown, Shipley & Co., 123 Pall Mall, London, England. He last wrote to the secretary on Aug. 3, 1908, from Edinburgh, expressing his regret at his inability to attend the dinner at the twentieth celebration.

THOMAS T. SEELYE. Has not replied to any communications. The secretary has no information concerning him or his address, beyond what was published in preceding reports.

JOHN M. SEIP. Has not replied to any communications. The secretary has no information concerning him or his address, beyond what was published in preceding reports.

CHARLES TILDEN SEMPERS. Writes: "Since the last report I have been engaged, with some interruptions, in literary work in New York City, most of it of an editorial character and anonymous. I coöperated in the work of americanizing Nelson's Encyclopedia and wrote a number of articles for it. Of my contributions to periodicals the only ones likely to interest any members of the class are a sketch in Collier's Weekly, Sept. 1, 1906, of Kier Hardie — the most conspicuous figure in the Independent Labor Party of England and leader of the Socialist group in the British Parliament — and another historical article in the Evening Post, Nov. 24, 1906, entitled, 'The Growth of American Socialism.' Possibly classmates with agricultural tendencies might be interested in an article, 'Robbing the Farmer,' in Tom Watson's magazine for January, 1906. In the summer of 1906 I was appointed instructor in rhetoric in the Rant School of Social Science, New York City, and assisted in a modest capacity in the work preliminary to the opening of the school in October. In January, 1908, a difference on a matter of politics having arisen between the board of directors and myself, at the invitation of members of my classes I conducted courses in rhetoric and literature at the University Settlement. The students with whom it has been my good fortune to be associated in these two years were chiefly young men and women of the working class with a few from the middle class, all interested in social questions and most of them Socialists. As the objects of the school made it necessary to admit, without examination, every one who applied, the problems of conducting an ungraded class in a way that would benefit its members and hold their interest was not an easy one. Academic methods hardly applied to the case. Nevertheless, after some experimenting, a satisfactory working method was developed. Moreover, although I had never had any strong inclination for teaching, and because of my inexperience began my work with the greatest diffidence, I soon found myself deeply interested in it. The unusual earnestness of the students is shown by the fact that at the end of the school year I was requested to continue the course beyond the term into the summer." Address, 121 West 63d street. In 1904 Sempers withdrew from the ministry and no longer claims or desires the title of Reverend.

JEREMIAH SHEEHAN. He has not replied to any communications. The secretary has no information concerning him or his address beyond what was published in preceding reports.

HERMAN THOMAS SHEPARD. Is a clergyman living at West Epping, N.H., but not preaching at present. Married Rose Etta Smith, Concord, N.H., May 6, 1905. Has one daughter, Rachael Elizabeth, April 14, 1906. Shepard has had a series of misfortunes, having lost an eye by an accident last year. His wife has also been seriously ill, and although she has recovered it is with partial loss of her vision.

THOMAS OSBORNE SHEPARD. Last known address, Salem, Mass. Has not replied to any communications.

Allan T. Simpkins. Died June 30, 1904, at St. Louis, Mo.

CHAUNCEY SMITH. Superintendent of toll traffic, Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company, office 78 South Pryor street, Atlanta, Ga. Member of Atlanta Athletic Club and Capital City Club, non-resident member of Boston Athletic Association. He writes: "I have had no change in station or condition since my last report. I am still plugging along in charge of the long distance telephone business of the Southern Bell Company, and have had the pleasure of seeing this business increase about four hundred per cent since it came under my care. It being the only baby for which I am responsible I am naturally proud of it. I never have to be idle as there are always about fourteen things waiting to be done and incidentally I am kept on the go all over the South Atlantic States, Alabama, and West Virginia. It is a better country and more prosperous than most of the class probably have any idea of, and the people, barring their tendency to shoot white people and hang niggers on slight provocation, are as fine a lot as any one could want to live with. I am always delighted to see an '88 man here, but they are lamentably scarce."

DANIEL KIMBALL SNOW. In business with firm of Tucker, Anthony & Co., bankers and brokers, 53 State street, Boston. Is a member of the Eastern Yacht Club and Country Club. Married Clara R. Anthony, of Boston, Nov. 16, 1901. One son, Henry Curtis, Sept. 25, 1905. Residence, 195 Walnut street, Brookline. Reports: "No change of interest or importance to record."

EUGENE SONDHEIM. Lawyer, New York, 170 Broadway. Member of the Harvard Club, Bar Association, and the Elks. Married Helen Stettheimer, New York, April 26, 1893. Children: Stella May, May 25, 1895; Mabel Helen, Aug. 23, 1897. Residence, 14 East 60th street, New York City.

EDWIN WILLIAM SPAULDING. Is a lawyer with office at Pacific building, Washington, D.C. Member of University Club, Washington. Married Katharine Lair, of Dayton, Ohio, Dec. 27, 1904. One daughter, Nancy Macdonald, Oct. 19, 1906. Residence, 1617 21st street, N.W., Washington.

WILLIAM STEWART SPAULDING. President of the Revere Sugar Refinery. Office, 2 Broad street, Boston. Member Somerset, Union, Tennis and Racquet Clubs, Boston; University, Harvard, and Racquet and Tennis Clubs of New York. Residence, 99 Beacon street, and Prides Crossing, Mass. Spaulding has traveled more or less extensively on his yacht, the "Isis."

FREDERICK DUDLEY STETSON. Lawyer, New Bedford. Member of the Old Dartmouth Historical Society, Home Market Club, Wamsutta Club, New Bedford; New Bedford Country Club and New Bedford City Club. Politically his part has been "simply voting Republican in National and State election, and with minority in city elections." Married Helen Whitney Prescott, Oct. 3, 1891. Residence, 42 Grove street, New Bedford, Mass.

EDMUND CHANNING STOWELL. Physician, making a specialty of children's diseases. Has offices at Boston and Durham, N.H. Is assistant professor of children's diseases at Tufts Medical School. Married Sarah Russell May, Dorchester, June 1, 1893. Children: Channing, July 28, 1895; Samuel, June 1, 1902. Winter residence, 31 Severns avenue, Jamaica Plain; summer, Dublin, N.H.

LYNDE SULLIVAN. Is a lawyer, room 608, 35 Congress street, Boston. Residence at Malden, Mass.

WILLIAM LAWSON SUMRALL. The secretary has received no word from him.

HAROLD SWAIN. Lawyer at 55 Liberty street, New York. Member of the West Side Tennis Club. Married Margaret Reid, New York, September, 1893. Residence, Grand Boulevard and Concourse, Bronx, New York City, N.Y.

SOLOMON LOUIS SWARTS. Is a lawyer, member of firm of Lyon & Swarts, Third National Bank building, St. Louis, Mo. Member of the St. Louis Country Club, University Club, Harvard Club, New York; and local, State, and American Bar Associations. He taught "Agency" at Benton Law School for several years. He has been secretary and is a great believer in the Associated Harvard Clubs, and is chorister for the St. Louis Harvard Club. His travels are "confined to annual summer pilgrimages to the northern woods for rest and fish." Married Florence Mary Eisemann, of St. Louis, Feb. 14, 1898. One son, Frederick B., June 18, 1903.

EDWARD WYLLYS TAYLOR. Is a physician 457 Marlboro street, Boston, Mass. Married Elsie Brewster Howe, Boston, Oct. 14, 1897. Children: Ruth Wyllys, May 13, 1900; Katherine Brewster, June 7, 1903. He writes: "Since the last report I have been elected a member of the Association of American Anatomists and of the American Medical Association. In 1906 received the appointment of instructor in neurology at the Harvard Medical School with membership in the Faculty. In 1907 one of the editors of the Boston Medical and Surgical Journal. In 1905 associate editor of the Journal of Nervous and Mental Diseases, also for three years editor of Contributions from the Neurological Department of the Harvard Medical School, a yearly publication, chiefly of reprinted articles. Writing has been confined to work connected with the Medical Journal, with papers on technical neurological subjects and with several articles for books."

EZRA RIPLEY THAYER. Is a lawyer, member of the firm of Storey, Thorndike, Palmer & Thayer, 53 State street, Boston, Mass. Is a member of the Union Club and Tennis and Racquet Club. Married Ethel Randolph Clark, of Pomfret, Conn., June 23, 1898. Children: James Bradley, May 13, 1899; Eleanor Arnold, March 20, 1902; Ethel Randolph, Nov. 8, 1904. Residence, 77 Bay State road, Boston.

LUCIEN SKINNER THAYER. Is with the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company, 125 Milk street, Boston. Residence, Milton, Mass.

ISAAC RAND THOMAS. Cotton merchant, manager of Boston office of Geo. H. McFadden & Bro., of Philadelphia and New York. Is a member of the Union, Tennis and Racquet, Country, Eastern Yacht, New Riding and New England Kennel Clubs. Married Gertrude S. Fabyan, of Boston, June 12, 1889. Children: Arthur Malcolm, March 25, 1890; Elizabeth Whitwell, June 21, 1891. In the summer of 1907 he took the first real vacation he had had for fifteen years — three months in all — whole family with maid and chauffeur motored about England and the Continent. Saw the Ascot Race, the Grand Prix Automobile Race, at Dieppe, and the Sonder Classe Races at Kiel. Nobody was sick a moment, "not even the motor."

Residence, 303 Commonwealth avenue, Boston.

WILLIAM GOODRICH THOMPSON. Lawyer in Boston, member of the firm of Matthews, Thompson & Spring, Tremont building, Boston. Member of Union Club, Boston. He has spent the summers of 1906 and 1907 in Europe. Married Mary Hinckley Huntington, of New York, at Northeast Harbor, Maine, on Sept. 5, 1896. Children: Miriam Philips, Oct. 30, 1899; Katherine, Nov. 21, 1900; William Huntington, June 25, 1903; Charles Goodrich, April 22, 1906. Thompson was greatly affected by the death, in January, 1908, of his brother, Lewis S. Thompson, of the class of 1892.

JOHN S. TOOKER. Reports by letter that his address is Union Club, New York City. He was a special student, subsequently went to the law school and took a degree there.

HARVEY PARKER TOWLE. Is a physician, 453 Marlboro street, Boston, Mass. Is assistant physician in Dermatological Department, Massachusetts General Hospital; professor of Dermatology, Dartmouth Medical School, and assistant in Dermatological Department, Harvard Medical School. Is a member of Massachusetts Medical Society and numerous other professional clubs and societies. Has written a number of medical articles with long titles. Married Alice M. Buswell, of Newton, Mass., Dec. 14, 1898. Children: Charles Buswell, Nov. 1900, since deceased; Elizabeth, September, 1902; Caroline, 1905.

EDWARD WARREN TRULL. Is assistant clerk Police Court, of Lowell, Mass. Is treasurer of the Children's Home of Lowell, and a member of the Vesper Country Club. Married Ellen Burrows Duckworth, Lowell,

Dec. 28, 1898. One child; Ellenor Thorndike, June 6, 1907. Residence, 736 Andover road, Lowell. He writes: "I have nothing particularly new or interesting to report to my classmates. My time is fully taken up by my official duties at the Police Court and in the management of my large farm lying along the Merrimac river."

RALPH HENRY VAN DEMAN. Is a captain in the U.S. Army, now stationed at Washington, D.C., and on duty in the Military Infantry Division as a member of the general staff. He will probably be in this service until January, 1910. Address, care Adjutant-General, U.S.A., Washington, D.C. He is a member of the Army and Navy Club of Washington, and some regimental clubs, and the Loyal Legion. He holds a degree of M.D. from Miami Medical College, and is a graduate of the Infantry and Cavalry School, 1895, and the Army War College, 1905. He married Sarah McCune Rice, of San Francisco, at Ogden, Utah, Dec. 21, 1904. His professional work has taken him over most of the United States and Philippines, parts of China, Manchuria, Korea, and Japan.

JULIUS ROSS WAKEFIELD. Is secretary of the Old Colony Trust Company of Boston. Lives at Dedham, Mass. He is a member of the Harvard Musical Association, Harvard Travelers' Club, Norfolk Country Club, Norfolk Golf Club, Dedham Historical Society, Dedham Tennis Club, Boston City Club, and is treasurer of St. Botolph's Church, Dedham. He has traveled more or less extensively and has done some lecturing on foreign countries, illustrated. He has published the Dedham Historical Register and a book on the birds of Dedham in 1891.

JOHN HENRY WILLIAM WALDEN. Is a teacher. Lives at 13 Mount Auburn street, Cambridge. He is a member of the American Philological Society and has delivered lectures on ancient Greek university life at Harvard and at the University of Pennsylvania. Married Grace Reed, Cambridge, Dec. 27, 1900, and has one son, John R., Aug. 1, 1905.

ERVIN WARDMAN. Is editor-in-chief of the New York Press, 7 Spruce street, New York City. Is a member of the Harvard and University Clubs. Has written one novel, "The Princess Olga," published by Harpers in May, 1906. Married Mrs. Caroline K. Eyre, Washington, May 14, 1902. His only son, Seymour, died in 1906. Residence, Pelham Road, New Rochelle, N.Y.

HENRY STEELE WARDNER. Lawyer, 71 Broadway, New York City. Residence, 238 East 13th street, New York, and Windsor, Vt. He is treasurer of the New Jersey Zinc Company, and attorney for the same and various allied interests. He has published occasional contributions of no practical value, as he says, to the Vermont Journal, published at Windsor, Vt., on topics of local interest, such as game laws, mountain roads, landmarks, etc. In 1907 he spent the summer in England, France, and Scotland. He writes: "I am treasurer of the Cornish Toll Bridge chartered by the State of New Hampshire in 1795, and I am the fourth member of my family to hold that position since 1814. I own the only pack of otter hounds in America — about fifteen couple — a few of these I imported from Scotland and bred the rest. Owing to the scarcity of otters my hounds find their vocation in trailing foxes in the snow on the Vermont hills. Some prizes which I offered at the Vermont State Fair at White River in the autumn of 1907 for horses 'conforming most truly to the ancient Morgan type' brought out a handsome collection of old-fashioned Morgans which showed that the type has not yet disappeared."

EDWARD ROSS WARREN. Lives at Walnut place, Brookline, and is a member of the Union, Tavern, Norfolk Hunt Club, and Boston City Club, and New York Harvard Club. Is secretary of the American Free Art League. His time is almost exclusively devoted to public work of one sort and another in connection with hospitals, art societies, and various reform movements. He is especially interested at present in a movement for the removal of the duty on works of art. He is a free lance in politics and has no party prejudices. He went around the world in 1893 and counts up ten voyages to Europe.

FARRINGTON HASHAM WHIPPLE. Physician, 1079 Boylston street. Is a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society and Boston Art Club. He has written some works on medical subjects.

FRANKLIN BALDWIN WILEY. Is literary editor of the Ladies' Home Journal, address, 425 Arch street, Philadelphia, Pa. He has been engaged in literary and newspaper work ever since 1880, when he was New York correspondent for several suburban papers. From 1881 to 1883 he assisted in the department of foreign correspondence of the firm of Drexel, Morgan & Company, New York. He assisted in English at Harvard Summer School in 1892. From 1891 to 1899 he was on the staff of the Boston Evening Transcript. He has published "Roadside Rhymes," 1885; Harvard Guide Book, 1895; "Flowers that never Fade," "Voices and Visions" (verse), 1903, and general articles, sketches, stories and verse in the Ladies' Home Journal, Boston Transcript, Harpers Weekly and other publications.
